McLEAN COMMUNITY PLAYERS
“Red Hot & Cole”

The musical at the McLean Community Players captures the spirit of the 20’s and 30’s like the old movies we see on cable TV channels. Co-directors Joanna Henry and Stefan Sittig—and costumes vet “Bat” Battistelli, did a great job with an urbane setting, vintage tuxedos and gowns. The show is called “Red Hot & Cole” and follows the life of Cole Porter (Brent Stone). It begins with his early days and the celebrities who were part of his social and professional life such as Ethel Merman and Noel Coward. And you’ll hear a ton of Porter’s hit songs such as “I Love Paris,” “Anything Goes,” “Let’s Do It,” “Love for Sale”---and a thousand more. Keep your eye on producer Leah Aspell. See “Red Hot & Cole” on weekends through Feb. 2 at The Alden Theatre in the McLean Community Center off Old Dominion Drive and Rt. 123 at 1234 Ingleside Drive. Visit the box office or charge tickets by phone at 703-573-SEAT.
